Define Great • Assess Great • Experience Great • Execute Great

Are Your Leaders Driving a Hard to Imitate Competitive Edge?

We are pleased to invite you to the BTS Disrupting Leadership Development Event on July 22nd in New York City. We look forward to sharing our new leadership development point of view and to exploring game-changing methodologies that are redefining traditional approaches.

We believe high performing leaders deliver a hard to imitate competitive advantage. So at the core, our strategy is all about building your foundation for great leadership—and we do it in the context of your business model, strategy and culture because we believe context counts.

In classic BTS style, we will not deliver a PowerPoint festival. Instead, we will immerse you in a leadership development experience, illustrating how we help organizations define, select, experience and execute great at the executive, middle and frontline leadership levels. A Challenges and Choices™ Simulation was developed specifically for you, and the experience is based on solutions that have delivered measurable success for over one-third of the Fortune 500.

We promise a stimulating experience with interesting colleagues, good food, and of course, some fun. We hope to see you there!
